Thank you to our 2012 ITCC Volunteers

The 2012 ITCC in Portland was an outstanding event. As usual, the ITCC volunteers showed up early starting Wednesday and worked late each day, straight through until the final awards on Sunday. I am always amazed to see such a great group of volunteers working together for a common goal. Truly a successful event.

Finally we got some decent weather. I cannot begin without saying another thank you to all the past volunteers who worked so hard to set up the ITCC events with trying weather. Remember how the rain made lakes in Rhode Island – Lake Footlock and Lake Throwline 2009? How about the Biblical floods that shut down roads and the ITCC site in Chicago 2010? Let's not forget the 100-year rain event in Paramatta 2011. I was happy to see our volunteer team get great weather to set up and run a competition in Portland this year. It only makes me appreciate all your hard work and efforts even more.

It is said that there is no greater gift you can give than to lay down your life for another. I will say you all gave the second greatest gift. You gave of your time, your energy, your resources, not for the betterment of yourselves, but to serve, share, and support others to achieve a common goal. It takes a special person who will dedicate so much time, travel so far, and work so hard for little more than some coffee, snacks, and a T-shirt. I realize that the competitors are the stars of the event and that they have earned the right to be on stage, but without your hard work, your efforts, and professionalism, there would be no ITCC stage for the competitors to shine on.

I want to thank the equipment team, the PNW chapter, the Throwline team, Footlock and Head-to-Head footlock teams, the Belayed Speed Climb team, the Aerial Rescue team, the Work climb team, the Masters' Challenge team, and all their judges and technicians. I am humbled to be allowed to work alongside such a passionate and selfless group of volunteers. On behalf of the ITCC Committee and the ISA Membership, I thank you.
