

Public Statement from the International Tree Climbing Championship Technical Advisory Committee

RE: SRT Climbing Systems

In an effort to clear up some confusion in regard to the “SRT climbing systems” we wanted to provide an update.

Currently, there are no approved SRT climbing systems. Concerns are in regard to the incorrect use of individual components as well as poor overall configurations of components within these systems.

To date, no SRT climbing system has been submitted to ITCC for use at this year’s event.

6/6/2011